Mini Track Call for Papers on Corporate Governance, Boards and Accountability

Track chair: Dr Dimitrios N. Koufopoulos, University of Brunel, London, United Kingdom

Corporate governance is of immense significance in the current economic climate, as is increasingly and constantly infused with new theories and methodologies that challenge current practices of CEOs, board members and Top Management Teams. The aim of the track is to provide the opportunity to discuss and consider issues on Corporate Governance and Board of Directors. We seek to generate constructive exchange of approaches and viewpoints, leading to a critical contribution of the current knowledge and to revised key outcomes. This track invites academics, researchers and business professionals, who investigate related topics by approaching them from different theoretical lenses and research methods, to submit their papers (empirical and theoretical papers are welcomed).

Possible topics include, but are not limited to:-

- Perspectives on Corporate Governance and Financial Crisis
- Corporate governance theory, Ownership Structure – Forms of Ownership
- Board Tasks, Board Behaviour, Dynamics, Decisions Making and Performance
- Diversity on Boards (gender, minorities, etc).
- The (future) role of disclosure, regulation and codes of conduct
- Governance of Non Profit Organization and SOE's
- Rights and Responsibilities of Shareholders, Shareholder Activism
- Executive remuneration/Compensation, Evaluation of Directors
